Using this Guide

This is a guide to the sources we have at the Royal Berkshire Archives on World War I.

It is divided into the following sections:

Active Service overseas
Home Front
Remembrance

The guide is arranged by place for towns and villages throughout Berkshire. Records that are not place-specific are grouped under 'General' at the beginning of each section.

The reference listed after each entry is the document reference to quote if you would like to see that specific record. (Please note that some references are for more than one item). If you have any questions, just ask staff for advice.

If you would like to visit us to carry out your research, please email or call us to make an appointment. See our Planning Your Visit leaflet for further information.

Who Did What?

During wartime many emergency functions were run by the Government. The two most important local councils in Berkshire at the time were Berkshire County Council and Reading Corporation, which were responsible for effecting emergency orders. These principal councils either carried out the orders themselves or delegated them to the other borough or district councils. The guide also includes records kept by other bodies and individuals.
