

This great energy

An Exhibition to celebrate 750 years of self-government in Reading

'Of all the towns in Southern England inheriting famous traditions from the middle ages, none perhaps, has been shown as great an energy in modern times as the town of Reading . . . Reading has scorned to rest . . . Her life and growth are not spent.'
W.M. Childs, principal of University College Reading,
In The Story of the Town of Reading, 1905.

3 July - 13 September 2003

Berkshire Record Office, Coley Avenue, Reading

www.berkshirerecordoffice.org.uk

BERKSHIRE RECORD
OFFICE